Snow plant

by Paul Willis in the February 12, 2020 issue

(Sarcodes sanguinea)

O snow plant, growing right and sudden in the middle of the trail,

O pulp-red flowers, bright as Christmas, O saprophytic explosion, botanical grenade at my feet, is this what you do to gain our attention?

I see you near and far in the forest, shy to the ground but wanting everyone to know that winter is leaving this bare stage, your pop-up art.

—Sequoia National Park